

Robert Cole Sprague is the current City of Findlay Auditor, and he previously served as the City Treasurer. Robert grew up on Third Street in Findlay, and graduated as valedictorian of Findlay High School. He went on to Duke University, where he graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science in engineering. Out of college, he joined the consulting firm of Ernst & Young and has worked or lived in Atlanta, Oklahoma, New York City, Hong Kong, Singapore, London, Mexico City, and Houston. Robert left Ernst & Young to start his own consulting firm in Atlanta focused on Solomon Software, a Findlay-based software accounting package. After several successful years running his own consulting firm, he returned to school to earn his masters in business from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, graduating 7th in his class. He currently resides in Findlay with his wife, Amanda, and their three sons.
